PHILOSOPHY FROM FLO

GREETINGS TO ALL!!! As you read this letter, elections will be over and favorite sons and daughters will have won or lost. We will then be in that particular state of limbo which occurs while the ins are waiting to be out and the outs are waiting to be in.

I can especially identify with the outs who are waiting to be in since I have just very recently accepted the responsibilities and hard work, the pitfalls and stumbling blocks, and even joys and sorrows of the position of Executive Director. In a way I am in limbo. The first months of any job are largely orientation and one seems to hang suspended while observing, assessing and analyzing just where you fit in and how you can best achieve the goals and objectives established for the organization while meeting your own personal goals at the same time.

The stated goals of this agency have to do with professionalism and the legalities of nursing practice. In order to meet those goals in an efficient economical manner my personal goals must enhance progress toward that end. My observations from this position, where I hang suspended in limbo, sometimes by the neck it seems, is that everyone's purpose can be enhanced by carefully communicating, by maintaining helpful attitudes toward those with whom we are in contact and a willingness to try and understand each other as best we can.

We are in an age of technology and from where I hang again by the neck, it seems that machines have a fast hold on the other end of the rope which is tied to each of us here in the office. Frequently, this machine gives the rope a jerk and tightens up on the noose around each neck. Our world has become so mechanized that when the computer is not operating, then no work goes forward, no information can be retrieved and we truly function as though we were tied and unable to move. It's very difficult to communicate with a "Down" computer and it matters not to any machine what our collective attitude is. The best we can do is to have patience and try to understand what is happening and how we can efficiently progress despite the down times of the machine, and the bureaucratic road blocks of state government.

Nevertheless, the agency does move forward! Approximately 60,000 nurses were licensed in the past year, 4,000 NCLEX exams were given, disciplinary procedures were administered, along with surveys of 125 hospitals and other health care agencies and 38 schools of nursing. The consumer public is being protected very well in the State of Missouri and the quality of nursing education is being maintained at a very high level as evidenced by 93% pass rate on NCLEX exams. The Nursing Practice Act is being stringently upheld. Because I have a position out here in limbo I have been able to see the forest without the trees to obstruct my vision and I am very pleased with what I see. I am happy to be here despite all my talk about ropes around the neck. Those ropes are merely challenges which add to the excitement of the job. I gladly accept these challenges!

There are many of you whom I call friend and many others whom I have yet to meet. Meetings of the Board are held regularly and a majority of all sessions are open to the public. I encourage every one to attend, acquaint yourself with the members of the Board and the staff and to be active in maintaining your professional growth and integrity. Hope to see you soon.

If we can be of assistance to you at any time, please let us know.

Sincerely,
Flo

A MESSAGE TO FRIENDS AND COLLEAGUES

I have resigned from the Missouri State Board of Nursing effective January 1, 1985. Nursing is proceeding through exciting, often volatile times. As I follow the sun to warmer climes I will continue to further the cause of nursing and to work for the resolution of problems. I thank you for your support, and I will miss you.

LICENSURE EXAM SUMMARIES FOR SCHOOLS

The National Council of State Board of Nursing and its test service CTB/McGraw-Hill, have announced the NCLEX Summary Profiles Service for practical nursing programs.

This reporting service provides summaries of the performance of a school's graduates on the NCLEX examinations. Following each examination, subscribing schools receive 40- to 60-page summaries that analyze their graduates' performance in comparison with other PN schools in the state and across the nation. The information is reported in terms of content dimensions that correspond to popular curriculum models. Historical data for past examinations may also be reported in each profile.

A similar service for RN schools was introduced in June, and CTB/McGraw-Hill has announced that nearly half of the nation's RN programs have already subscribed.

The profile service, which will begin following the October 1984 NCLEX-PN exam, promises to be a useful tool for evaluation of a program's strengths and weaknesses as reflected in performance on the licensure examinations.

Descriptive information has been sent to all PN programs in the state. Further information about the NCLEX Summary Profiles may be obtained by calling CTB/McGraw-Hill (408/649-7799 or 7767).

NOTICE TO SCHOOLS WITH LPN/IV THERAPY COURSES

Submit to this office a professional vita or the name of the faculty person with their qualifications for teaching the course. Thank you.
